POLICY

1. School profile

Mildura Specialist School is located in the remote Sunraysia area in close proximity to the New South Wales and South Australian borders. As the only facility of its type in this large and remote geographical area it is a major resource for students with an intellectual disability. The catchment area extends beyond the township of Red Cliffs to the south, east to Robinvale and westward towards South Australia. In the north, it caters for a number of students from New South Wales.

The nearest Victorian facilities of a similar type are at Swan Hill, 235 km to the southeast.

Students are taught in small groups, having access to teaching staff, many with special education qualifications, supported by teacher assistants and Allied Health staff who provide consultancy services for programs.

In developing Individual Learning Plans, consideration is given to each student's needs, strengths and interests. The curriculum is based on the Victorian Curriculum. A multi-sensory program operates for students with severe disabilities. Students in their last three years of school concentrate on a transitional program for post- school life. Students are assessed on their individual goals twice each year.
